Section Q Participation in Assessment and Goal Setting

A participatory approach can be taken with any impact evaluation design, and with quantitative and qualitative data. However, the type and level of stakeholder involvement will necessarily vary between different types, for example between a local level impact evaluation and an evaluation of policy changes (Gujit 2014, p.1).

Participatory Evaluation | Better Evaluation

A participatory planning process builds trust, both between your organization and the community and among the individuals involved. This trust can serve as a foundation for future community development and community action. A participatory planning process generally reflects the mission and goals of grass roots and community-based organizations ...

and local government performance. The Guide combines a discussion of theoretical/ conceptual issues relating to local governance with a review of past and ongoing local governance assessment initiatives. The proliferation of different assessments and indicators has resulted in some confusion about which tools to use, how they should be applied and their weaknesses and strengths.
